

Sustainable Building and C&D Recycling Consulting

What We Do

SitePlus provides strategies for greener businesses, buildings and brands to commercial builders and owners. We facilitate and document green building practices and materials on construction projects, including the specific documentation required for LEED Certification by the U.S. Green Building Council.

We have a particular expertise in construction waste recycling, analyzing building materials and recycling options, and providing job-site procedures and actions that can increase the efficient and effective collection of waste.

Sustainability Plans and Implementation
